Groundwater Sampling and Analysis – A Field Guide

Cell death is the event of a biological cell ceasing to carry out its functions. This may be the result of the natural process of old cells dying and being replaced by new ones, or may result from such factors as disease, localized injury, or the death of the organism of which the cells are part. Kinds of cell death include the following:

Stieltjes, Perron, and Markov in analysis of the moment problem, for absolutely continuous measures, constructed the underlying measure as the discontinuity across the cut of a Cauchy representation of an otherwise real-analytic function.

Cytometry is the measurement of the characteristics of cells. Variables that can be measured by cytometric methods include cell size, cell count, cell morphology (shape and structure), cell cycle phase, DNA content, and the existence or absence of specific proteins on the cell surface or in the cytoplasm. Cytometry is used to characterize and count blood cells in common blood tests such as the ...

Description Author: Akiyoshi KUZUME; Institute of Innovative Research, Tokyo Institute of Technology – Abstract: In situ Raman spectroscopy is capable of probing electron transfer processes under electrochemical condition by monitoring local structure and reactivity properties of solid/liquid interfaces. Therefore, in situ Raman spectroscopy is now recognized as one of the powerful surface ...

Chella Krishnan et al. apply integrative genetics approaches to delineate –key driver– genes regulating NAFLD using multi-omics data from ~100 mouse strains. In vivo modulation of these genes rescued animals from steatosis and insulin resistance. Follow-up bioenergetics studies highlight mitochondrial dysfunction as a key mechanistic driver of NAFLD.

Flow cytometry is a powerful analytical tool for the analysis of multiple biological parameters of individual cells or particles within heterogeneous cell populations. It has been widely used in biomedical research to perform immunophenotyping, cell counting and numerous cell function assessments, such as intracellular cytokine production, protein phosphorylation, cell proliferation and apoptosis.
